Results of Miceli's annual questionnaire

Rep. James R. Miceli, who represents both Tewksbury and Wilmington has announced the results of his annual voter questionnaire. The questionnaire was distributed at town meetings conducted in both Tewksbury and Wilmington.

Rep. Miceli has made a goal of bringing state government closer to his constituents by offering monthly district office hours, holding an annual town-wide meeting in which all residents are invited to participate and generating ideas and input from the residents with this questionnaire.

The response was as follows

Question 1: Are you in favor of an early retirement incentive program for municipal employees, including teachers?

In Tewksbury 81 percent of those responding answered yes; 17 percent no, and two percent were undecided.

In Wilmington, 72 percent answered yes; 21 percent no; seven percent, undecided.

Question 2: Are you in favor of using earmarking as a mechanism to make sure a greater share of local aid money is diverted to each community's school system if the Education Reform Bill does not become a reality?

Tewksbury residents answered, 69 percent yes; 21 percent no, and 10 percent undecided.

In Wilmington, 73 percent answered yes; 20 percent no; and seven percent, undecided.

Question 3: Would you support changes in Proposition 2 1/2 for the municipalities to have more revenue?

Tewksbury residents answered 46 percent yes, 52 percent no; and two percent undecided.

In Wilmington, 36 percent answered yes; 58 percent, no; six percent, undecided.

Question 4: Do you favor capital punishment?

Tewksbury, 70 percent yes; 26 percent no and four percent undecided.

Wilmington, 75 percent yes,; 22 percent no; three percent, undecided.

Question 5: Do you feel the Federal Government is moving in the right direction to put America back to work?

In Tewksbury, 13 percent answered yes; 84 percent no; three percent undecided.

Wilmington, 13 percent yes; 81 percent no; and six percent undecided.

Rep. Miceli would like to thank all those who participated for their input and has stated that in addition to the poll itself, there is much to be learned by the written comments offered. The Representative feels this information will be valuable when he is faced with difficult decisions of how to vote.

Wilmington's assessor to retire in August

by Arlene Surprenant

Wilmington's Principal Assessor Tony Krzeminski will be submitting a letter to the town manager on July 15 stating his intention to retire after 27 years on the job. Krzeminski's retirement will go into effect at the end of August.

Krzeminski was hired by then Town Manager Richard Henberger in November, 1965. At the time, Wilmington needed an assessor to do a re-evaluation of industrial and commercial buildings in town. According to Krzeminski, when Henberger hired him he warned him to buy a home he could resell quickly since he hadn't had much luck with assessors in the past.

"But we were lucky," Krzeminski recalls, referring to himself, his wife Grace, and his son Paul. The family moved into a Jackson-built home on Moore Street and has been there ever since.

What stands out most about his years in Wilmington, said the assessor, was the obvious growth throughout town, especially in the industrial sector. That growth seemed to start in 1969 with the development of the industrial park in South Wilmington and continued with the rezoning of the Evans Farm on Ballardvale Street to an industrial zone. When he first arrived in Wilmington, the total value of the town was $70 million. Today, it's well over one billion dollars, he said.

"It's been very interesting to be a witness (to) and a part of all that growth," Krzeminski told this paper.

Over the years, Krzeminski watched as the assessor's job grew in importance and a new generation of assessors became very well-educated.

"Assessors today pretty much control the (tax) levy," he explained.

Krzeminski has kept in touch with others in his field. In 1982, he was named president of the Assessors' Association of Massachusetts. Krzeminski is still on the Professional Admissions Committee and will continue to act in an advisory role and attend executive board meetings after he retires.

Traveling, indulging his love of golf, and doing part time appraisal work are also on the Principal Assessor's future agenda. Though plans are "still up in the air," Krzeminski and his wife are looking forward to taking a trip to celebrate their 30th anniversary in November.

Krzeminski has already had offers to do independent appraisals for banks and attorneys on a part time basis. The hardest part of that will be going back to school to first obtain a license. Despite 30 years as an appraiser and experience teaching in his field at the University of Massachusetts and at the county level, a new state law requires additional course work to earn his license.

When he leaves, Krzeminski will be taking with him fond memories of staff and others he's worked with in the past 27 years.

"I'll miss the people. We've had some super people working here over the years," said the assessor.

According to Krzeminski, 20 "very capable" candidates have responded to ads placed in professional and state newspapers for his position. The field has already been narrowed to three finalists and, said Krzeminski, a decision on his replacement will be made shortly.

ONCE IN A WHILE
As the tax laws are written, everyone age 55 or older gets one chance at the $125,000 exclusion of capital gains from the sale of a principal residence. If a couple is married, even if only one partner owns the property, still both husband and wife get only one shot at this tax advantage. If one partner consents and allows the owner of the house to utilize this once-in-a-lifetime exclusion, he or she can never use it again, even in case of death or divorce and remarriage.
But if divorce is in the offing, there's a way to get out of both the property and the marriage and get twice as much in the way of tax benefits as allowed by the tax code.
Here's how: the couple arranges to own the house as tenants-in-common and they wait until the divorce is final before they sell the property. At that time, because the house is the principal residence of two people who are not married, they are entitled to not only one, but two exclusions of $125,000!
When there are tax advantages to be had, we'll find them for you at

Neighbors speak out on flooding concerns

by Arlene Surprenant

Fear that the construction of a new home on Reading Street would increase area water problems led 19 residents to sign a petition expressing their concern and present it to the Wilmington Conservation Commission last Wednesday. At least four abuttors to the home being built by applicant Ed White spoke out at the meeting.

The home will be built within the 100 foot buffer zone of wetlands. According to White's engineer, Michael Cuneo of Lakeview Engineering, though only a small amount of the area will be filled, there will be 240 square feet of wetlands replication.

Commission Chairman Gary Mercer suggested the applicant get a variance on setback from the board of appeals to reduce the need to fill the wetlands. He also expressed concern that the small yard would encourage the owner to expand it closer toward the wetland boundary. John White asked if there would be roof drains to avoid impact to the wetlands and was told they could be provided.

Neighbors asked commissioners to take their concern about potential flooding into account before making their decision.

"There's a lake out there," noted Greg Hogle, who submitted the petition on behalf of his neighbors.

"It's so wet that our children skate there all winter," added Vita Marie Graham,whose home abuts the site. She questioned what affect the construction would have on the artesian well that supplies water to her home. Graham and Hogle both pointed out that the area has had water problems "for years."

The board agreed to a site walk of the property before making any decision.

Backyard gardening

by Hugh Wiberg

Odd and ends from phone calls and letters:

A Tewksbury gardener, W.R., called to talk about basil. Miss R. had two questions: first, what might account for the ragged holes she is finding in her otherwise healthy basil plants? Several plants have been pretty well stripped of their lower leaves. Second, is there any way to store basil after it is picked?

The clue to identifying the culprit is your comment that the damage is being done on the lower part of the plant. Sure sounds like slugs, which invariably start chewing holes in the plants' leaves at the bottom, and work upward. We discussed slugs in a recent column and, in case you missed it, I have mailed you a copy. You haven't seen the critters on your plants because they curl up in a cool damp corner at sunup, and feed almost exclusively at night.

As to storage: basil is best, of course, when used immediately after harvest. I have found that the sprigs will stay fresh for several days in a jar of water covered with a plastic bag in the refrigerator. For long term storage, basil can be frozen in plastic bags and will keep for six months or so. Blanch it first to retain flavor and color. We have found that coating it (after blanching) with butter or vegetable oil before packing it in the freezer bags helps.

S.R. of Wilmington writes about his Montmorency cherry trees, and I shall quote from his letter. "You wrote about fruit trees a couple of three years ago and I was motivated to send off to Stark in Missouri for a couple of pie cherry trees. They are doing very well and we had a few cherries last year. This year the six foot trees are loaded. I have two concerns though. Last year just as the cherries started to get color, the birds stole them before they were fully ripe. The other thing is that we see some small round brown spots on the cherries and we're wondering what this could be a sign of. Thanks for any suggestions!

Let's take part two first. Having had pie cherry trees in the past, I also saw this brown spotting from time to time. I suspect you have brown rot on your trees. The good news is that this disease can be controlled. The brown spots will spread to cover the whole cherry, and the rotted areas develop light gray masses of spores. Once you spot the problem - usually appearing first around late June - apply the fungicide Daconyl to the trees, being careful to follow instructions on the bottle label. Applications must be repeated twice at 10 day intervals. This should resolve your problem. Be sure to wash the fruit thoroughly before using it in pies. As to the birds, this is a problem everyone who has ever had cherry trees has to contend with.

Three species especially robins, bluejays and mockingbirds, love ripening cherries. If you plan to live where you are for many years, I'd suggest you plant borders of mulberry, chokecherry, mountain ash or dogwood. Birds will take these more aromatic fruits before they steal your cherries. Net barriers are available in garden supply stores, but nets must completely surround the tree to be effective. Otherwise the birds will find a way to squeeze in under it. Trees larger than eight feet are very difficult to cover entirely, but it can be done. As the trees grow larger and the cherries become more abundant, you will probably not mind sharing a portion of the harvest with the birds. For the pleasure the birds give us, it is probably a small price to pay.

Another fruit tree question from a homeowner in Wilmington who asks, "How does one control aphids on the tender new growth on my three apple trees? I tried your suggestion of washing them off with a hard stream from the hose but this is not really practical with large trees. Any other suggestions?"

Try using Safer (brand name) insecticidal soap, an organic spray. Apply every other day starting now and continue through July. If your aphids are especially tough, apply Ortho's All Purpose Home Garden Spray, but be sure to apply it late in the evening. This spray contains Sevin, which is toxic, so handle it with care and use only as a last resort. Three applications a week apart will do the job. Good luck.

Top award

Girl Scout leader Joanne Scharmer joins Jean Marie Maranville and her parents Marie and Bud Maranville at that awards ceremony where Jean received Girl Scouting's highest award after two years of work.

Local Girl Scout earns top award

Girl Scout Jean Maranville of Tewksbury was presented Girl Scouting's top award - the Gold Award at a ceremony held at Endicott College in Beverly. Council Vice-President Elaine Mills of Methuen and Executive Director Megan Shea of Andover, presented the awards. The Gold Award takes more than two years to earn and involves completing three interest projects, exploring career opportunities, coordinating and assuming a leadership role within the community and taking an assessment of one's life in order to set personal goals. The final project is the Girl Scout Gold Award project which involves developing a plan, carrying it out and evaluating its success.

Jean's project involved organizing a dance performance in Lowell for Aids patients and their sponsors. She recruited dancers and a trumpet player, planned the show and coordinated costumes and rehearsals.

Spar and Spindle Girl Scout Council, a United Way agency, serves 53 communities in northeastern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire.

Advice sought on houselot

by Arlene Surprenant

Local developer Paul Butt came before the Wilmington Conservation Commission last week for help in completing work on a houselot in his Hamilton Woods subdivision. The subdivision is located on Middlesex Avenue. Lot two is one of several lots that are still unfinished. Since lot two has wetlands issues and there is a potential buyer for the new home, Butt was seeking the fastest way to obtain a building permit and finish the work. The houselots are being developed on an individual basis. The subdivision road is already complete, according to Butt.

"I just don't know which way to go," said the developer. Butt explained he had already been before all town boards except the commission and he was trying to avoid delay since his workers were ready to put in the foundation.

Planning and Conservation Director Lynn Duncan told Butt none of the previous order of conditions issued for the subdivision cover lot two. In a brief history, she said the commission did vote in favor of a negative determination with conditions allowing the work to proceed but the determination was never issued because of lack of compliance on one of the conditions.

In a recent letter to the board, Butt had requested that an enforcement order be issued so he could begin work on the site. Chairman Gary Mercer said such an order would be inappropriate since it "raises alot of flags" and means the developer is not in compliance. Commissioner Lynne Guzinski said she would be more in favor of issuing another determination. However, there would be some delay with this route since the request wouldn't come formerly before the board until July 15 and the applicant would have to wait out a 10 day appeal period.

"It is complicated, I realize that," said Butt. Duncan advised him to file on four other lots at the same time he files for lot two to avoid any more delay in the future.

Miceli supports bridge-road repair

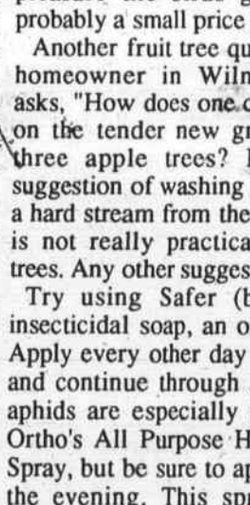

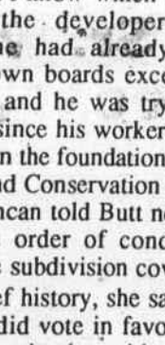

Considering the current condition of Massachusetts' roads and bridges, Rep. Miceli and the Legislature have passed an amendment to the outside sections of the budget restricting the use of gas tax proceeds for maintenance and replacement only.

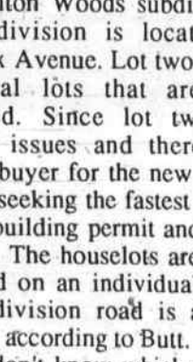

This action will shift over $200 million for roadway projects but will not render any additional tax burden to the Commonwealth's residents. Presently the law allows revenues acquired through the gas tax to be shifted to other areas of the Massachusetts' state budget. This measure will ensure that the revenues will be used solely for roadway projects. Another goal sought by this measure is to increase the labor force by the creation of additional construction jobs.

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Bill Fay's ouster is ironic coming as it does at the heels of a new working majority on the school committee, which seemed to bring with it new hopes for a functioning relationship between school chief and school committee; often absent in Wilmington public education.

That hope, held dear by parents and other taxpayers, has just been dashed as the school committee and superintendent failed to reach a contract agreement. What is significant here is the sudden and striking erosion of Fay's political support, which bolstered Fay, providing him with an admirable survivability factor.

Members Kane and Callan voting against a new contract with Fay is hardly surprising. However, the relevant political story is that the consistent Fay detractors were joined unanimously by the superintendent's previously loyal following. Bob Peterson's defection as a Fay supporter was almost as startling as Phil Fenton's. The veteran board member from Butters Row had been Fay's most ardent benefactor for over a decade, and his 'no' vote gives indication that the public is not presently getting the entire story.

For now, the story is that Bill Fay will probably depart the scene as one of the few school chiefs in the Merrimack Valley to enjoy broad and enthusiastic support from the majority of his subordinates. It is a rare day when you can find true harmony between a superintendent of schools and the majority of his or her professional unions. That was the norm in Wilmington throughout Fay's tenure, and is to our chief educator's credit.

The future holds some immediate and pressing priorities for the school committee. First, the local education board is obligated to communicate in an up front manner with the public. If there is an untold story here affecting the community, the committee's boss, the electorate, deserves to know.

Second, Wilmington should prepare prudently for a comprehensive superintendent search, stimulating broad interest in public education. Leave the paid consultants to Weston, Wellesley and other such moneyed places. Our community, true to its spirit of inclusion, should commence a grass roots superintendent search process which involves every group comprising the political and social conscience of the community.

In the meantime, should Fay's Wilmington career truly be at an end he may leave with the knowledge that he brought stability when it was most needed and asserted a positive rapport with his staff which is all too rare in public education.

Briefly in politics

...In Tewksbury, reform Selectman Richard "Pete" Hanson has tipped his hand after only three short months in office. I knew something was amiss when "Pete" voted a few weeks ago to appoint an old friend, Pete Peters, to the Conservation Commission; at the expense of Richard Lavaseur. This appointment led to the impromptu resignation of Commissioner Bob Rauseo.

It should be noted that the two "Petes" are as thick as Petes get. Both were developers and both are retired town employees. They take winter vacations together in Florida, Pete Peters was a partner of Chief Assessor Norman Boudreau on several development projects (see the condos at Pleasant Street and the houses at Bopete Street, a reported one million dollar deal), and both Petes served on the Conservation Commission. They voted so much alike they were known as "Pete and Repeat."

So, for Pete's sake, it's no wonder Pete got Pete an appointment.

....Not to say I told you so, but weeks ago we predicted the promotion of a Jay Kelley campaign contributor. Last Tuesday evening, over the protests of Anne Looney, Jay's pal was appointed to a good job at a good wage. One town employee was so irate she practically accosted Selectman Hanson, accusing him of "selling out" to the Kelley boys.

Speaking of appointments. . . the Tewksbury Finance Committee (Kelley's boys and girls) just hired the town's most famous litigator. Selectman Thomas Camara's wife Jean Camara was just awarded a public post despite her pending $5 million lawsuit and demands for the town manager's resignation. I guess it pays to be nasty. (Yes, I know she was the only applicant, but that's not the point.)

The ultimate irony is that Camara was hired the same week summons were served town officials as part of the Camara lawsuit. Jeanne and husband Tom signed complaints which will bring to court former selectman Charles Coppola, Lt. Dick Barelle from the fire department, building inspector Tom Monahan and Town Manager David Cressman.

Maybe Jeanne's new job is a down payment on the $5 million.

And speaking of the benefits of hardball politics, in Tewksbury, John Kane, general foreman at the Tewksbury DPW, isn't going to sit around and wait for the state legislature to pass incentives for municipal workers to retire early. Kane has been seen lobbying Town Manager David Cressman to credit Kane five free years for his retirement. Sources close to Kane say that he has threatened to run for selectman if his special request is not granted - another graduate of the Camara school of politics. I'll bet dollars to donuts Kane wins and the cajone-less town administration backs down and pays the ransom.

Job Prediction this Week

The Tewksbury School Committee may soon hire a $20,000 per year media director to be shared with the board of selectmen. We're shocked at the rumors that the post is being created for Selectmen Chair Jay Kelley's wife. Absolutely no proof here.

But....Kelley would need the consensus of both boards, which actually may be an easy task. Ann Romano works for James Robert Miceli, a long time Kelley pal. Rick O'Neil managed Kelley's campaign and Pat Meuse just passed the bar...and guess what lawyer may be helping her out?

Votes at the selectmen side of this equation are easy. Kelley supported Pete's buddy and Tom's wife, so time to call in the favors.

...State Rep. Brion Cangiamila (R) received a major boost in his bid for state senate as Governor William F. Weld traveled to Billerica last week to endorse the Republican legislator. Weld's move was all the more significant as Cangiamila has a Republican primary challenger and the Weld/Cellucci administration has often shied away from choosing sides within their own party ranks. Tewksbury Attorney Jay Gaffney, a former legislator and congressional candidate, is making a political come-back bid this summer as he challenges Cangiamila.

In a Republican primary which has a low voter turnout, the governor's endorsement could be all the more significant. If G.O.P. voters do not focus attention on the Andover, Billerica, Lawrence, Tewksbury senate seat race, letters of endorsement coming from Weld could make Cangiamila's primary fight an easy win. Weld enjoys solid popularity ratings, especially within the Republican rank and file.

On the Democratic side of the senate race, former senate legal counsel John O'Brien is leading the pack in fundraising. Local democratic leaders continue to describe O'Brien as the front runner in his primary with the best connections to the Senator Pat McGovern political machine, now searching for an heir apparent. One key McGovern campaign staffer, Marybeth Heffernan, has signed on with O'Brien and has reportedly brought with her the lucrative McGovern campaign finance list. O'Brien's recent donor list is a near-replica of McGovern's.

However, O'Brien supporters are concerned about two achilles heels for their candidate. First, O'Brien hails from Andover, the smallest community with the least votes in the senate district. Second, and more significantly, O'Brien's status as a state house insider may be a heavy burden to carry in this throw-the-bums-out political year.

. . . Hats off to Carolyn Harris this week, Chairman of the Wilmington Historic Commission. On the eve of the Fourth of July, Harris presented a citation from the National Register of Historic Places recognizing the antiquity and historic significance of the Wilmington Town Common area. This makes the area eligible for federal subsidies and is the culmination of several years of efforts to beautify the town common area, now a proud and beautiful centerpiece for the community.

editorial

Politics is the problem, but what is the cure?

by Larz F. Neilson

If the Wilmington Housing Authority were to have a motto, it would "political fighting is our most important product."

It is indeed unfortunate that politics plays such a strong role in the housing authority, but there seems to be no escaping it. This story is one of political bickering taking priority over the proper running of Wilmington's public housing.

In politics, people tend to form alliances. Candidates for office find that they don't get very far without a group of some kind.

Politics in Wilmington in the past quarter century have been split into two camps, one started by the late Rep. Fred F. Cain, the other centering around State Rep. Jim Miceli.

The groups are not so formally organized that a board of directors decides who will run. But when a candidate ventures forth, the endorsements he or she accepts quickly identify which group he or she is aligned with. People have become so accustomed to looking for this identification that when a new candidate appears, there are people looking for signs of allegiance, even when there are none.

Occasionally there will be a candidate who stands independent of existing political groups. But even they have some sort of a group behind them, such as family and friends.

Having a political group is not in itself bad. In fact, if a candidate wants to get elected, it is quite necessary. But there are times when group politics get out of hand.

What has happened in Wilmington is that each group has developed such animosity toward the other that exposing the wrong-doings of the other group has become a primary focus.

The reason so many problems land at the housing authority is that the authority controls a very desirable commodity — low-cost housing. Admission to the housing units is controlled by a list supposedly run on a first come, first serve basis. But then, how do you accomodate that "special case?" And if someone has found a way to take care of a special case, who defines and controls that system?

In other words, the operation of the housing authority has great potential for patronage abuse. And whether or not it actually takes place, it also has great potential for accusations of abuse.

Proving anything is very difficult, since all applications and tenant information are strictly confidential. While this is rightly intended to protect the privacy of the applicants and the tenants, it also conveniently conceals the sins of those playing the patronage game. And because the real sins are so hard to find and even harder to prove, minor transgressions become tales of mortal sin when fertilized with political fodder.

Does this bear any resemblance to Washington politics? Even if you don't like Ross Perot, you have to recognize the appeal of a candidate who represents "none of the above."

As things now sit with the housing authority, the line-up is three-to-two, and everyone, including the executive director, can be identified as being with one group or another. The fighting has eclipsed all other business of the housing authority, taking time and attention from the business of developing new housing for a population under increasing pressures in the housing market.

One answer would be for the entire board to resign, along with the executive director. Don't hold your breath, though. Each side is so entrenched at this point that they would not do this for fear of letting the other side win. And even if everyone should resign, a game of musical chairs would ensue with little chance of placing a new board with no political strings attached.

The July 7, 1982 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that winners of a Fourth of July pie eating contest included (among others)

Bobby Jo St. John, Jeff Sands and Mike LaLiberte.

The search for water in rock fractures some 500 feet below the ground got underway Tuesday as the seven member Tewksbury Deep Rock Well Study Committee heard the sales pitch of two firms.

Richard Davidson of Trull Road was appointed to the US Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y., scheduled to report there on July 13. The nomination for appointment was made by Sen. Edward Kennedy

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

As an observer of the unfortunate events swirling around the Wilmington Housing Authority being played out weekly in the local press and WCTV, and then today (Sunday, July 5) the Boston Globe story by Andy Dabilis explaining the authority's troubles, it is abundantly clear that a "network" of people is diligently working to cause disruption at the Housing Authority for political reasons.

Two years ago Kevin Sowyrda (columnist-reporter for the Wilmington Town Crier) waged a bitter battle against State Representative James Miceli for election to the House of Representatives, and lost. Kevin's campaign manager? Selectman Chairman Mark Haldane. Kevin's campaign treasurer? Housing Authority Chairman Tom Siracusa.

Who was largely responsible for getting Mark Haldane elected to the Board of Selectmen two years ago? Surprise! Selectman Bob Cain, that's who.

Earlier this year Housing Authority Chairman Tom Siracusa ran for election to the Board of Selectmen and lost. Candidate Siracusa's campaign manager? Selectman Haldane, of course. Campaign headquarters? Selectman Bob Cain 's office. Campaigning for Siracusa was Housing Authority Commissioner/landlord Alfred Meegan.

Because the "network," spearheaded by Commissioner/landlord Meegan, was unsuccessful it its illegal firing of Housing Authority Executive Director Belmore, they now blame her for Commissioner/landlord Meegan's conflict of interest, and have labeled her and other Commissioners as stupid, uncaring, and bigots. Haldane, Siracusa, Cain and Sowyrda identified the ethnic background of Commissioner/landlord Meegan's tenant to the press and also during their WCTV appearances. Apparently, this was the kickoff of the Haldane-Siracusa 1993 campaign for selectmen. It would be interesting to know where they obtained this tenant's confidential information. By law, this information is not even available to Housing Authority Commissioners, unless one happens to be a Commissioner/landlord. Because federal and state laws prohibit the release of privileged, confidential information on tenants, perhaps the Attorney General's office should investigate as to who supplied such information to the "network."

It's plain to see that this kind of tag-team politics is only hurting the name of Wilmington and victimizing the tenant of Commissioner/landlord Alfred Meegan.

The July 13, 1967 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

The Wilmington Tradesmen, lost only one game in their last 12, thus maintaining first place in the Carling Intercity Baseball League. Much of the credit was given to the best pitching staff (Including Kevin Field, Jeff Williamson and Joe Buglione) in the league which allowed only 21 runs in the last 22 games and were riding a streak of three shutouts.

There was no report from the planning board, regarding Redwood Terrace for Monday's selectmen's meeting. Planning Board Chairman Dan Gillis said things were being closely checked with no results as yet - things such as missing records, removal of loam and irregular drainage (the more things change)..

Ralph Buschmann, Raffi & Swanson's marathon racer, took the 25 kilometer crown in Wakefield on July 9. It was his third victory in this race in four years.

Airman Walter Hale III, his wife Pamela and their son Walter IV were spending a leave at the home of his parents on Glen Road.

Rita Chisholm daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.A. Chisholm of Hopkins Street was named to the dean's list at Chandler School for Women in Boston.

From an ad featuring an obviously "country bumpkin" type individual smoking a corn cob pipe, "I thought a Camaro was some kind of Italian picture taking gadget 'til I stopped in at Gildart Chevrolet Co. and they showed me what it really was."

An ad from the Pines Speedway listed among its features, auto racing, speed, crashes, stock cars, semi-late models, and....lady drivers."

Poloians Real Estate offered a six room ranch with a two car garage on five acres at...$20,000.

Roy Syvertson, chairman of the Youth Service Committee was pictured accepting a check from Kiwanis Treasurer Gordon Lister as Director Win Polsey looked on. The check would enable a Wilmington child to attend summer camp for a week.

Elia's offered Ipswich steamer clams, four pounds for a dollar; California Iceberg lettuce, 19 cents a head and cukes three for 19 cents.

Scenes from a celebration: Fun on the Fourth

Justin Petrie's ice cream truck was a prize-winner in the bicycle parade on the Common. The parade was held on Sunday after being washed out on Saturday.

Jillian Onorato was a winner in the doll carriage parade. She and her doll were in matching lavender outfits.

The Lions Club Keystone Kops are always good for a laugh on the Fourth of July. Domenic Fiumara needed a hard head to test his billy club on, and Roger Gouldsbrough's just happened to be convenient. (Photo by Paul Rich)

Tim Madden may have been entered in the Fourth of July bicycle parade, but in his mind, he was in a motorcycle race.

Courtney Miller didn't win a prize in the doll carriage parade, but it wasn't lack of effort on her mother's part. Sandy Miller had to make sure that Miss Liberty's crown was on almost straight.

It was raining in most places on the common Friday evening, but not under Dori Gray's blanket tent.

Reviewing a policy – John Doherty, Windy Sweeney and Teri LaBella. missing from this photo are Bill Wooley, Kathy Yarwood and Rich McCarran

Did your insurance agent review your policies with you before automatically renewing them last year? Don't you think that would be a good idea?

Wilmington Insurance does an annual review of every policy. Sometimes coverage is increased, sometimes the coverage is decreased. An experienced insurance agent will recommend the best value for you.

Many times you will receive a letter from one of those "big companies" offering to lower your premiums. What they don't tell you is that they may lower your coverage and leave you under insured. Remember: insurance is only good when it works.

John Doherty of Wilmington Insurance answered this way when asked, "What do you do?" "Protect the client. It's my job. Everyone in the office has been trained to give the best product for the best price. We represent many companies and can compare them to get the vest value."

They protect homes and cars, property and life, boats and even can provide surety bonds. If you need insurance and would like to deal with an agent who knows you, and will remain in the same office for years, call Wilmington Insurance.

One of the services they provide is Free registry service. With two trips to the registry every day you can be assured of getting your new or used car on the road when you want. It's easier with a recent new car to deal with Wilmington Insurance. Your car must be inspected for damage. That can be done here in Wilmington. With other companies you must take your car out of town.

Another great reason for dealing with Wilmington Insurance is your summer (or winter) home in New Hampshire, Maine or Florida can be covered on the same policy as your home here in Mass. No more trips to North Egypt during the week because that insurance agent won't make a weekend appointment.

Weekend appointments? Yes! Of course! And evening, too! Just call 658-3805.

Save money. Insure yourself properly. Call today for a free review.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

A few weeks ago, I wrote a letter to Kevin Sowyrda, saying that I agreed with his article on the governor's education reform package that appeared in the paper a week before and I gave him some of the reasons why. I never intended for my personal feelings to be published. I mistakenly thought that only letters written to the editor be published.

However, as a result of the published letter, I met with representatives of the teachers' union (at their request) so that some of the issues could be resolved. I learned that I was given incorrect information regarding grievances to the teachers' union by someone who, although a worker at the school, was not a member of the union. I was told grievances would be filed if a teacher was asked to do something outside of the contract regarding his care, and in actuality no grievances have ever been filed or even brought before the principal regarding his care. This was something I learned at the meeting.

Mr. Leccesse (the principal at my son's school), although not required to be at this meeting, was there to lend his support and to assure me that he will do everything that he can to see that my son is made to feel like any other kid. Dr. Christine McGrath hosted this meeting and cleared up a lot of issues for me using plain English. It's been my experience with her that she does what she says she's going to do. I think this town was lucky to get her as a superintendent.

In my previous letter regarding the teacher reform package, I mentioned that when I was in high school (many years ago in another school district), there was a teacher out sick a lot and sometimes who would even show up appearing drunk. The consensus at the time was that she couldn't be fired because of her tenure. The Tewksbury Teachers union representatives felt that people reading this might think I meant that Tewksbury teachers do the same thing.

So, to clarify this matter, no teacher that I know in Tewksbury shows up drink in class. It's so ridiculous to even think that readers would think that. As a matter of fact, the teachers my son has had at the Trahan School must be the cream of the crop. His current teacher has him so mainstreamed in class that she told me she sometimes even forgets he's handicapped (which is hard to do). My older son's teacher at the Junior High (grade six) is also exceptional. Incidentally, I was told by the teachers' union representatives, that if this ever were to happen here, the teacher would be helped and if the situation remained the same, could in fact, be fired - tenure or no tenure.

While my previous letter was not meant to be printed, I'm glad that the teachers' union, Dr. McGrath and Mr. Leccesse cared enough to meet with me as a result of it to remedy the situation concerning my son and to clarify incorrect information regarding the teachers' union I had received. The meeting proved to be beneficial to both me and my son.

Sincerely,
Loretta Pellegrino

P.S. You do have my permission to print this letter. Thank you.

Dear Larz:

Eight fifty-five at night on July 3rd, 1992. As I am preparing for my annual trip to watch the spectacular Wilmington fireworks, my younger sister rushes out of my parents bedroom shouting "Let's go! The fireworks start in five minutes." "No" I reply calmly, "it's only nine o'clock, we have another half hour." "No sir," comes the immediate reply, "I just called and they are starting them at nine o'clock." "Who did you call?" I inquired. "The Fourth of July building!" was the lightning quick response. My mother soon confirmed everything that my sister blurted out, and we raced off so we wouldn't miss the fireworks.

After talking to friends, I found out that this surprise caught many people off guard and some even missed the fireworks display. I feel that the decision to move the fireworks time up a half our was a poorly thought out and irresponsible decision. The time to start the display was nine thirty and if there was inclement weather then a rain date was scheduled. No where that I have read told of any option to start the display earlier.

In conclusion, I feel that next year the Fourth of July Committee should either expand the options of when to hold the fireworks or just stick to what they publish as possible times to show their fireworks display, and please, no more surprises.

Thank you for listening,
Christopher Kearns

New state regs require contractors to register

Rep. James R. Miceli has announced that a new state law goes into effect July 1 which is aimed at protecting homeowners from unethical home improvement contractors.

The Home Improvement Contractor Law will require contractors to register with the Commonwealth. Those who do not register may be subject to either a $5,000.00 fine or up to two years imprisonment. Homeowners doing their own work, licensed tradesmen (i.e. plumbers, electricians) and contractors who grossed less than $5,000.00 in the past year need not be registered.

Registration will cost between $100.00 and $500.00, depending upon the number of persons under a contractor's employ. Half of the fee will be placed into a reimbursement fund, while the other half will cover registration costs. The fund will provide reimbursement, up to $10,000.00 for those who have contractors who do not complete a contracted job, do not return a deposit made on an incomplete job or perform inadequate work. To receive reimbursement through the fund however, a consumer must first file suit against the contractor or exhaust private arbitration collection. The contractor will then need to repay the necessary amount to the fund (if a consumer is successful) or face suspension. Consumers not using registered contractors will not be able to recapture any monetary loss through the use of the fund. Those using contractors are required to have a written contract displaying the appropriate registration number.

Consumers wanting more information on the Home Improvement Contractor Law should call (617) 727-7780, the Department of Consumer Affairs and Business Regulations. Contractors seeking registration forms should call (617) 727-8598, or obtain forms through your local building department.

Wilmington school news

North Intermediate school

During the month of June, the students of the North Intermediate School were given the opportunity to travel and view some of the more interesting sites of the area.

On June 4, 86 sixth grade students boarded a whale research vessel in Gloucester for a trip to Stellwagen Bank, rich feeding ground for humpback and other whales. The students, along with six parents and five teachers observed for three hours almost a constant viewing of whales. They witnessed as many as six humpbacks at one time and saw a mother nurse its calf.

Prizes were awarded to several students who were able to answer the questions about the whales, their habits and their environment made up by their study skills teacher Frank Birmingham. This trip was the culmination of a month long study skills research project on whales.

Twenty-six seventh grade students spent the days of June 10-12 on Nantucket Island learning more about this island rich in science an history.

While there, they toured the Nantucket Junior-Senior High School. They listened to a talk on whaling from a Nantucket teacher, met several students. Teachers Jan Urquhart and Frank Birmingham even met a former student of theirs, Kristen McCowan, now director of the swimming pool at the school.

One day was spent touring the historical sites of the island including the Thomas Macy Warehouse, the Whaling Museum, the historic windmill, the gaol, and the United States Coast Guard Station at Brant Point. Students visited the Maria Mitchell Science Center. At the observatory, they were able to compare the use of older viewing instruments with those of modern computer assisted telescopes. Spending part of one morning in the Natural Science Museum, they viewed a nearly complete collection of Nantucket birds, reptiles, mammals, fish and shells. They were able to witness first hand the negative effects of litter and man's insensitivity to his environment.

Not all the learning was done in the classroom or museum atmosphere. While living at the former Life Saving Station, now the Star of the Sea Youth Hostel, the Wilmington students were able to talk with students from many different backgrounds including Ireland, Scotland, England, Japan, Germany, California, Connecticut and Vermont. Participating in the hostel way of life, each child had to be responsible for his/her own gear and area as well as helping out with the hostel community. Therefore, each participant helped in meal preparation or cleanup and assisted in the morning chores. Several students joined Mr. Birmingham for a 5 a.m. view of sunrise and surf casting expedition.

After spending three days bicycling, cooking, for themselves, living communally and all without television, students returned to Wilmington having shared a wonderful experience.

Mr. Birmingham thanks the chaperones who, without their hard work, this trip would not have been possible. A big tip of the hat goes to Mrs. Urquhart, physical ed. teacher; Mrs. Karen Cozzoli, health teacher and Mr. Ken Hart, parent.

I knew it was a great hospital, not by the amount of time I spent there, but by the amount of time I didn't.

Joan Maglio came to New England Memorial Hospital to undergo a gynecological procedure that would treat her barely detectable but dangerous precancerous lesion. She was surprised and pleased at how quickly she was able to leave the hospital and return home.

While Joan's procedure was major, it was not surgery in the conventional sense of the word. Her hysterectomy was done vaginally with the aid of advanced laparoscopic techniques. Dr. Daniel Feinn, Joan's skilled gynecological surgeon, successfully performed the exacting procedure with no large incisions, no post-operative complications, and little, if any, pain. Joan was up and around in two days, and back to herself in no time.

Joan Maglio speaks very highly of the excellent treatment she received from the caring, concerned staff at New England Memorial Hospital. But, thanks to Dr. Feinn, she didn't have much time to get used to it.

Wilmington black man served in Revolution

by Capt. Larz Neilson

"We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal, and are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights."

The words are from the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776. They were an echo of a common belief, prevalent in the Colonies, and expressed by Thomas Paine in his pamphlet "Common Sense."

At that time in Massachusetts Bay town meetings were not allowed, except for the annual town meeting to elect selectmen, etc. The British king had changed the government which grew up from the Colonial days of 1630.

On March 3, 1777, the Town of Wilmington held its first Town Meeting to elect officers, after the Declaration of Independence. That meeting was in the church, called the Meeting House.

After the Town Meeting had elected the officials and had completed the regular business of the day, it got down to the subject of Freedom. It voted,unanimously, that all slaves in Wilmington should be free. It further voted that if any persons who were so freed were unable to care for themselves the town should do so.

Wilmington was probably the first community in Massachusetts to free those people who were black and who lived here. It might have been the first in the United States.

Two weeks ago, in a place dedicated to veterans of Wilmington, an official used an inappropriate term, referring to a person of a different race. The selectmen, it is to be believed will discuss this in their next meeting.

They may possibly refer to the fact that the only soldier from Wilmington to serve at Bunker Hill was black in color. His name in the records was Titus Colburn, and he called it Titus Cober.

Capt. John Harnden and the company he commanded were part of the Colonial forces guarding Harvard College. They were not among the Colonials who marched the night before the battle to Bunker Hill.

During the course of the battle all three of those companies were detached and sent to Bunker Hill. That of Capt. Harnden was the last.It arrived at the time that the Colonials were streaming down the back of Bunker Hill.

The name of Titus Colburn appears three times in the records of the company commanded by Capt. Ephraim Corey, a company which was a part of the Middlesex Regiment at Bunker Hill.

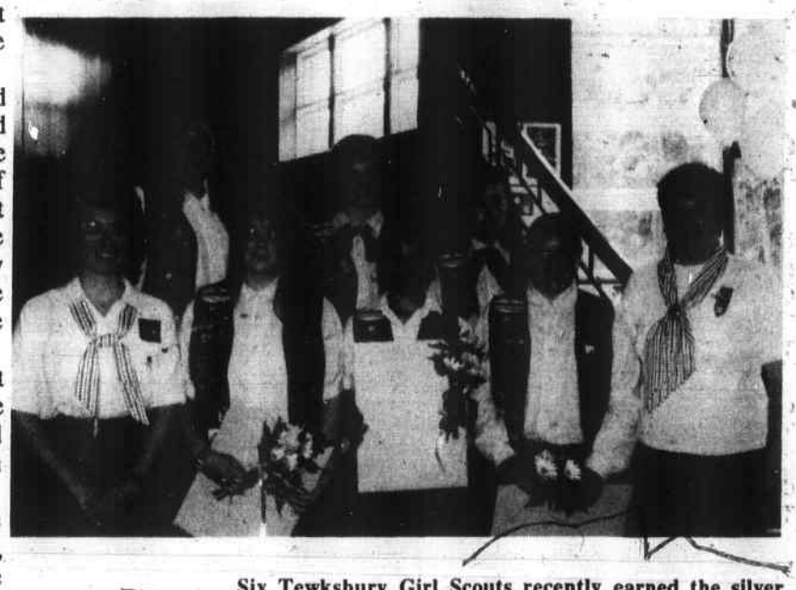

There are further records. One shows that he marched Dec. 16, 1776 to reinforce General Washington "in the Jerseys," and returned on March 27, 1777.

Another shows that he served from June 9, 1779 to November 24, 1779. According to the last entry he was from the Town of Wilmington.

The Wilmington town records show that Titus Cober and Vilot Noble were married on August 28, 1785, and that a child, Jennie was born May 27, 1789.

They were, the records say, servants of Ebenezer Jones, a family which lived on Andover Street.

And Wilmington can take pride in this man and his family.

Grants available for recycling efforts

Rep. James R. Miceli recently introduced a new grant program offering communities who recycle an opportunity to be awarded recycling and composting equipment.

The Department of Environmental Protection will implement this program which will allow the state to award $1.5 million in equipment to communities who make recycling a sustainable component of their solid waste management program.

Each community has been issued specifications of the grant program and an application package. The deadline for filing is September 15, 1992, but Rep. Miceli recommends that municipalities file early. The Commonwealth is already purchasing equipment in anticipation of the high number of grants being awarded.

Representative Miceli who has consistently been a strong supporter of environmental programs, said that the grants will allow communities the opportunity to start or expand recycling programs.

ADDITIONAL LIVING EXPENSES
QUESTION: If I have major fire damage to my home and my family has to live in a motel while repair is underway, will my homeowners insurance pay this extra expense?
ANSWER: The "Additional Living Expense" section of your homeowners policy will provide money for temporary housing and other expenses in the event your home cannot be occupied due to damage or destruction. This would include (in addition to housing) eating meals out, and transportation in some cases. (If it's an additional cost because of the new temporary living location.) Be sure to keep receipts for all the additional living expenses as a proof of claim.

Hair is the Total You

BODY BUILDING
By Linda Gaffey
Blondes and those with baby-fine hair are the ones who are most likely to benefit from the body building effect of hair coloring. Color formulations are able to achieve this thickening effect because they have chemicals which "rough up" the hair cuticle, the hair strand's outer layer. That is, by penetrating the hair cuticle and altering its structure, hair coloring is able to impart more texture and body to hair. Those with the thinnest hair strands benefit most. The best way to achieve this effect with the least amount of fuss is through highlighting. Not only does this selected-strand hair coloring technique rough hair cuticles, but it also creates the illusion of greater depth.
Here at SHAWSHEEN HAIR SALON we sunshine your hair with the latest hair color highlighting techniques from Matrix®. It is our belief that professional know-how is essential when dealing with hair coloring. To make sure you look your best every day, call our friendly salon for an appointment. We're open six days and nights of the week, closed Sunday, and we're conveniently located at 161 Shawsheen Ave., Rt. 129, Wilmington.
Biolage Hydrating Shampoo® is recommended for color treated hair.

Police asked to verify food operation at VFW

by Arlene Surprenant

Wilmington health officials are asking local police to verify if members of the Nee-Ellsworth Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) are dispensing food or beverages at their clubhouse on Main Street before issuing $50 a day fines for an illegal food operation. The VFW, said Health Director Greg Erickson on Monday, currently has no permit to run a food operation or a kitchen on the premises. Because the organization is non-profit, however, such a permit could be issued free of charge, if requested.

The issue is traced to complaints made to the board that Commander Elmer Parker is living and eating at the VFW headquarters. The board sent out two letters to Parker, one in March and one in April. The March letter asked for a floor plan of the facility and tried to arrange for an inspection of the premises. When no response was forthcoming, a second letter was sent asking the VFW to cease and desist running a food operation.

Erickson told the board of health at its meeting Monday that he asked the police chief to check into the situation and he agreed to after Memorial Day. Erickson said he had had no other contact with the police. Because the clubhouse is closed during the day when Erickson works, the board directed Erickson to again approach the police to pay a visit to the headquarters to verify the complaints.

"We're fully prepared to proceed on this," said newly elected Chairman Jim Ficociello. He told this paper fines will be issued if the VFW is found to be violating health regulations. In addition, copies of the cease and desist order and the tickets, when issued, will be forwarded to the state and national VFW offices, he said.

ConCom approves Ristuccia's excavation plans on Main Street

by Arlene Surprenant

Plans to do some excavation work behind the Subaru Dealership and Hess Gas Station on Main Street were approved by the Wilmington Conservation Commission last Wednesday. The work borders the Boston and Main railroad bed.

The work, explained engineer Erich Nitzsche, will allow water to drain off site to a drainage outlet by Main Street. The excavation work will be done within the 100 foot buffer zone by wetlands.

The Notice of Intent to work near wetlands was filed by Ristuccia Realty Trust, owner of the Subaru site. An order of conditions was first issued in 1982 to allow the Ristuccias to construct the auto dealership and provide storm damage control. The construction increased runoff but the excavation work was never completed, said Nitzsche. The original order expired. Conservation Commission Chairman Gary Mercer told the engineer the board would want the new order of conditions to supercede the old order.

Lynn Duncan, the town's planning and conservation director, said the town engineer wants to make sure the water doesn't run freely. He also asked that the conservation agent look at the drainage pipe to make sure there is no sedimentation build-up. Nitzsche assured the board the pipe and catch basin would be cleaned out.

John White asked the applicant to remove some old auto parts along the railroad bed. Nitzsche said he would but the work could only be done by hand since a machine could damage the wetlands. Mercer suggested, as a matter of courtesy, the applicant talk to the owners of the Hess station to inform them of the excavation plans since the work will impact that property. Nitzsch agreed. The board will most likely issue an order of conditions at its next meeting.

Water dispenser raises questions

by Arlene Surprenant

A proposed water dispenser facility to be located in the Foto-Mat building in Lucci's parking lot on Lowell Street raised several questions at Monday's Board of Health meeting in Wilmington.

Health officials reviewed a proposal by Water International of Hingham to put in a water dispenser which would allow customers to bring their own gallon bottles to the site and fill them up with purified town water for a fee. The plan has been sanctioned by the state Department of Environmental Protection because it reportedly meets their requirements on discharging water.

But health board members had questions nonetheless. They asked where the discharged water would go and how often the facility was going to be tested to make sure it was functioning properly. Health Director Greg Erickson said he would find out how many gallons a week will be discharged.

Whitney has tall orders for Tall Ships event

When the parade of Tall Ships makes its way through Boston Harbor this weekend, Ed Whitney will have a front row seat. Ed will be at Buoy No. 8, opposite Castle Island in the inner harbor.

How does someone from Wilmington get a front row seat for Boston's show of shows?

The Wilmington businessman is a member of the Coast Guard Auxilliary, and patrols Gloucester Harbor every weekend in his own boat. The Mona Lisa will be one of some 90 vessels on patrol in Boston Harbor this weekend. The boat is a 25-foot Boston Whaler, fully equipped and carrying a crew of three, including an EMT. A quick-response boat, the Mona Lisa has two large outboards and is capable of handling fairly heavy seas, Whitney said. He has been out in 10-12 foot seas, with blue water breaking halfway up the windshield.

Whitney said in preparation for the Tall Ships, the auxilliary received a packet of orders two and a half inches thick.

Last year, the Mona Lisa was called to a major fire at the Danversport marina.

Wilmington senior topics

Nurse at the Center

Next Thursday the nurse will be at the center to check blood pressures and give diabetes tests beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Now that summer is upon us we will be spending more time out of doors, attending cookouts going to the beach, and taking leisurely vacations. This is good for all of us after a long stressful winter. Before we indulge ourselves in the goodies at the cookouts or the assortments of ice cream at the beaches, it would be wise to have the nurse check our sugar level.

Diabetes is a silent and dangerous illness. Silent because it can be active in our body unknown to us and dangerous because if it goes undetected until a very high sugar level becomes a serious medical problem, our life could be in danger. Don't put it off. Have the nurse check you for diabetes Thursday, July 16 at the center.

Hearing specialist

The hearing specialist will be at the Senior Center, Friday, July 17. Starting at 10 a.m., he will check hearing ability and all types of hearing aids for proficiency.

Cholesterol check

Tuesday morning the nurse will be at the center to give cholesterol tests. Cholesterol is another one of those medical problems that can be starting its destruction of our arteries without tour knowledge. Cholesterol is a buildup of plaque on our arteries.

What is plaque? Saturated fat. The culprit as in diabetes during the summer months comes from the hamburgers, hot dogs, steaks, fried potatoes, etc. It all contains saturated fat along with those delicious desserts, that put us in danger of a blocked artery causing a heart attack or stroke. Nurse Ann can tell you if you have an elevated cholesterol level by taking a few drops of your blood then processing it through her machine at the Town Hall. She cares enough for our health to set aside a few hours a month to go to the center and give cholesterol screening.

All you have to do is drop into the building that is air conditioned and smoke free. We have plenty of comfortable chairs to sit on while you wait, we have the latest in many monthly magazines paid for through the generous donation from Bill Cavanaugh. Remember to make your appointments early in the month for these clinics, so we can inform these professionals how many seniors will be waiting for them, allowing them to judge how much time they will have to spend at the Senior Center.

Podiatrist

The podiatrist will not be at the Center this month. He will return in August.

Elder services

We congratulate our Elder Services Commissioner, Marilyn McCarthy who received the silver medal in the Senior Olympics line dance contest held in Woburn.

Exercise class postponed

The Friday morning exercise class will not be held on July 17 and nor will the afternoon bingo games due to the annual picnic.

Children's drawings displayed

Over 360 children's drawings were displayed at the Calendar Art Show at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center.

Second graders from North Reading, Wilmington and Andover were invited to draw a picture from four different medical themes. At the art show, awards were given out to the 12 students whose drawings were chosen to appear in a school calendar. Calendars will be distributed to households in the participating towns.

In the second inning McTire scored a solo run, while Rocco's scored three on RBI hits from Rob Ferguson and Chuck Duggan.

With the score tied at four, Mike Herra and Bob Silva each drove in two for Rocco's to take the lead, 6-4.

Rob Monteiro drove in one in the fourth, then in the fifth Marc Reed and Tommy Hamilton each drove in big runs to take the lead 9-7 after five innings for McTire.

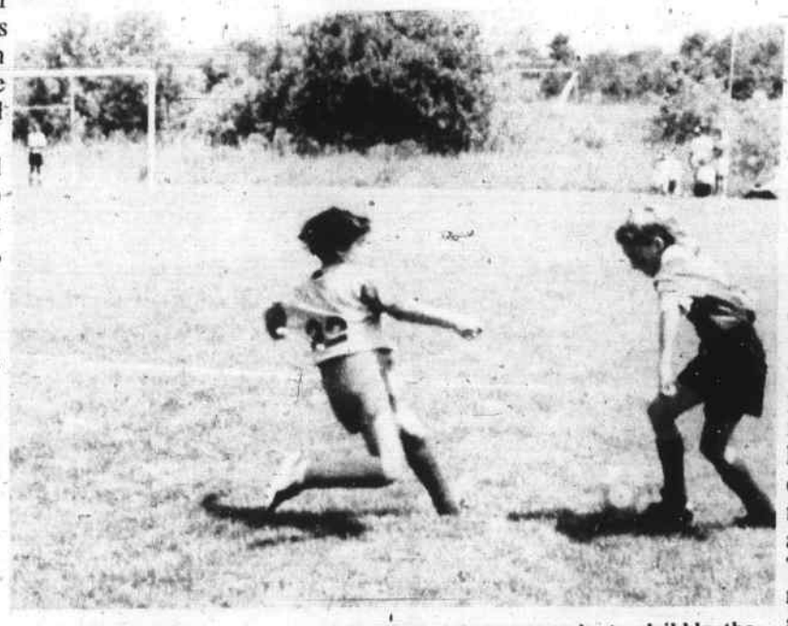

In the sixth, Rocco's rallied for five runs on a double from Ferguson, a triple for Duggan and a couple of walks to make it a 12-9 lead for Rocco's.

McTire wasn't done, because in the seventh, Paul Fullerton and Monteiro each drove in runs to tie it up at 12 each.

In the eighth both teams left two runners on, but could not deliver the big hit. But, Paul Fullerton did. A solo homerun in the ninth took it for McTire by a score of 13-12.

Wilmington Youth Soccer

Wilmington girls realize dream

It all started in June 1990. Who would believe that eight in-town soccer players mixed with two travel team players would ever realize the dream of competing and winning the Division One girls' under 10 championship. It became reality when on June 20, two years after the under 10 tryout that this young Wildcat soccer team would be involved in a final head-to-head game competition with North Reading for the title.

This was the last game of the spring season and Wilmington needed the victory to win, a tie would not be enough. The high spirited girls practiced hard throughout the season, and were credited by opposing coaches and referees with being the most competitive under 10 team in the Middlesex Youth Soccer League.

Wilmington established itself early in the season by winning its' first contest against a tough Wakefield team, 2-1 and followed that with victories over Waltham 7-0, 6-0, Melrose, 8-6, Westford, 2-1 before dropping a tough contest to undefeated North Reading, 2-0.

Wilmington's style of play using two forwards, two halfbacks and a sweeper (1-2-2) in its' offense and defense proved effective for each player to participate in scoring goals as well as defending.

Wilmington entered the Billerica Memorial Day tournament and qualified for a wildcard entry by defeating host Billerica, 4-1, Agawam, 7-0, and the North Reading Division II team, 10-0.

Monday's 9 a.m. contest was the thriller, as this determined team took on Shrewsbury and won 1-0 in double overtime.

Race upfield

Amy Axelrod pushes ball upfield against North Reading. Lauren McCarthy races upfield in the background.

Later the young Wildcats took on the Division B winner, Burlington and won 1-0 to advance to the finals at Winchester. Although the girls played hard, they could not overcome their opponents and lost, 6-1. They earned a membership trophy, an accomplishment well deserved.

The four games of the spring season would be competitive and needed the strong support of all the players. Wilmington had to face the same Burlington team in the tournament and had to settle for a 2-2 tie.

Saturday, June 20 would decide the Division One championship between North Reading (7-0-2) and Wilmington (7-1-1) at Shawsheen Field.

The Wildcats took a 2-0 lead at halftime. Wilmington controlled the ball in the second half and pushed it upfield to score three more goals to the opponents' one. The final score was 5-1 to give Wilmington the Division One championship.

The soccer players who made it happen were Lisa Dellascio, left forward, who showed team leadership and led the team in assists. On a breakaway, Lisa's ball control and kick to net on passes was a sure goal.

Amy Axelrod, right forward, an energetic player who pushed the ball upfield to score and hustled to help her teammates defend.

Jessica Butler, left halfback, a skilled offensive and defensive player who played the position as it should be played. We all will miss Jessica as she moves to Merrimac.

Michelle McGonagle, right halfback, her athletic ability and positive attitude were inspirational. Nobody will forget those goals against Burlington at the tournament that advanced the team to the finals.

Lindsay Bruno, sweeper, the youngest of the players, and the best defensive player. Lindsay's quickness, ball skill and overall ability sparked many shots on goal.

Alicia Paquin, goalkeeper, dived on loose balls and made the key saves during the season and the tournament. She inspired her teammates by accepting the toughest field position.

Karen Hardy, right halfback and a solid all-around player who kept the opponents in check and played soccer with enthusiasm. The on-target corner kicker who scored goals.

Lauren McCarthy, left halfback, a player who entered a game to play 100 percent, controlled midfield and inspired the team with a positive attitude.

Jennifer McNabb, right forward, a player who really hustled, defended and pushed the ball upfield.

Jessica Garbatti, left forward, who contributed to the team's success. It was Jessica who scored the first goal against North Reading in the final.

Many thanks to assistant coach Joan Axelrod for her support during the season.

Andover Baseball School

The very popular, informative and instructional Andover Baseball School has two sessions left and still has some openings.

The next session begins Monday, July 13 and runs until Friday, July 17. The last session runs Monday, July 20 through Friday, July 24.

Ages are from seven to 16, time is from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and are held at Andover High School.

Each day a video analysis of the player will be conducted and at the conclusion of the camp a written assessment will be provided to each player.

The camp is directed by Andover High School baseball coach Dave Bettencourt (Mass. State Champs '91 and '92).

Other coaches include Phil Cultrera, Salem, N.H. High School; Mark Pelletier, Central Catholic High School; Bill Blackwell, assistant coach Salem State College; Ron Drovin, assistant coach Tewksbury High School and program director Bill Blood, assistant coach at Andover High School.

Tough defeat for soccer girls

June 27 playoff game

On Saturday, June 27, in Woburn, the Wilmington Diamonds (girls' under 10-3 team) played in the Division Four Commissioner's Cup against Burlington.

In a hard fought game that ended in a 2-2 tie and went through two overtime periods still tied, the Diamonds were defeated by a deciding penalty kick competition, 2-0.

The game started and promptly stopped a few minutes later due to an approaching lightening storm. After a one hour delay for the storm, the game resumed.

Wilmington scored first on a booming kick high into the net by Michelle Lemos. Burlington quickly evened the score 1-1, when the Diamonds were unable to clear the ball away from the net.

Near the end of the first half a Burlington player made a nice crossing high kick over the Wilmington goalie and into the net to put them ahead, 2-1.

Determined to even the game, the Diamonds came out and played a strong second half. With about 10 minutes left in the game, Valerie Cwiekowski, Christie Ross and Tina Tomasi pressured the Burlington defense and with a loose ball in the goalmouth area all three players slid into the mud, kicking the ball into the goal in a great effort. Despite several more scoring opportunities, the game ended tied, 2-2.

Through two overtime periods the play went up and down the field. Both Noelle Bard and Brianna Daisy made key stops in goal to preserve the tie.

With the game down to five penalty kicks for each side, the prressure mounted. Four shots were taken by each team. Three of Wimington's shots hit the crossbar or goalpost and bounded away.

Burlington made two of its' four penalty kicks, thus winning the game. It was a game that no team deserved to lose.

A successful season doesn't just happen. It took a lot of hard work and dedication. The assistant coaches, John Cahill and Dave Cwiekowski, were a big reason for the team's success. The parents deserve a lot of credit for making sure the girls came to practice and for supporting them at the games.

On Saturday, May 30, the Wilmington Diamonds (girls' under 10-3) played an away game against the Burlington-4 team. The girls started out tentatively which resulted in two quick goals by the strong Burlington ream.

Regrouping in the second half, the Diamonds outplayed Burlington, but were unable to put the ball in the goal.

Wilmington made several advances on goal that resulted in several wide shots. The Diamonds suffered their first defeat of the season, 2-0.

Noelle Bard played a strong game along with Lynn Hurley, Christie Ross, Michelle Lemos, and Elizabeth Dorrance (who valiantly played despite having the flu).

On Saturday, June 6, the Wilmington Diamonds (girls' under 10-3) traveled to Malden to play the Cosmos-2 team.

Despite the hot weather, the Diamonds totally outplayed the Cosmos in winning the match, 5-0.

Great teamwork was exhibited, as several goals were the result of excellent passes. Lynn Hurley celebrated her birthday by scoring the first goal on a penalty kick.

Elizabeth Dorrance scored two goals with assists to Colleen Cahill and Christina Falanga.

Valerie Cwiekowski scored a nice goal with an assist to Christine Ross.

Scoring her first goal of the year was Christina Falanga assisted by Elizabeth Dorrance and Colleen Cahill. The goalies had an easy go of it, as play was mostly in the Cosmos' end of the field.

In makeup of a postponed game, the Wilmington Diamonds (girls' under 10-3) played an exciting game against North Reading on Monday evening, June 15.

Despite outplaying their opponent throughout the game, the Diamonds wound up with a 0-0 tie.

Several Diamonds played extremely well in this hard fought contest. Strong two-way efforts by Tina Tomaso, Valerie Cwiekowski, Elizabeth Dorrance, Colleen Cahill, Michelle Lemos, Christie Ross, Lisa Dineen and Lynn Hurley.

In an exciting finish to a great season, the Wilmington Diamonds outgunned the visiting Medford team, 6-0 to finish the season with eight wins, one loss and one tie. This earned the Diamonds a tie with the Burlington team for first place and a place in the Commissioner's Cup playoffs.

The goals were scored by Valerie Cwiekowsk with an assist to Elizabeth Dorrance; Michelle Lemos assisted by Tina Tomaski; Tina Tomasi on a penalty kick; Elizabeth Dorrance, and Meghan Cahill assisted by Brianna Daisy and Tina Tomasi.

After the Medford game, the Diamonds played their parents (geezers) in a hotly contested match.

The girls were given ice cream and cola prior to the game. Age and treachery were too much for the girls, as the geezers defeated the Diamonds, 4-2.

Showing exceptional soccer skills for the visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Tomasi, Mrs. Hurley, Mrs. Lemos, Mrs. Bard, Messrs Cahill, Cwiekowski, Daisy and Dineen.

Wilmington boys wrap up successful season

The Wilmington boys' under 12 youth soccer team recently wrapped up a very successful spring season, finishing with six wins, one loss and three ties. The only blemish on an otherwise unbeaten record came at the hands of a tough Tewksbury team on the final week of play.

Entering the final game, Wilmington knew that only a win would get them into the area playoffs. After a sluggish start, Wilmington began to apply constant pressure and barely missed on several great scoring chances.

Eventually this go-for-broke attitude allowed Tewksbury to slip behind the Wilmington defense and earn a hard fought, 1-0 win for the league crown.

Playing against other towns' top teams in Division Two, the team got strong performances from all the players, starting with goalies Brian Thresher and T.J. Flynn. Brian's booming kicks often changed the flow of the game and relieved pressure on the defense while T.J.'s aggressive style led to some super stops in the Wilmington goal.

Consistent, solid play from the halfback position was provided by Buddy "Big Foot" Phillips, Chuck "Bulldog" Vallas, "Mighty" Matt Senesi and Peter "Rabbit" Bamberg.

Anchoring the defense were Tommy Casella and Danny Sweet. Cassela developed into one of the finest fullbacks in the league, while Sweet, playing from the center fullback position, often saved the day with many spectacular plays. Great playmaking, speed and teamwork were the reasons why the team was so powerful offensively.

Leading the charge up front were forwards Ryan Covino, Mike Garbati, T.J. Flynn, Matt Kacamburas, Eric Mehigan, Casey Murphy and Justin Vallas.

Earning the title of Mr. Versatility were Sean Cahill and Kevin Riley, as they both filled in effectively at several different positions.

The coaches would like to thank all of the boys and their parents for their cooperation during the year, making this a very rewarding experience for all concerned.

Checking the local fishing holes

by Bill Conlon

Okay. It's an hour before sunset on a workday, and you want to put in a couple hours of fishing. You don't want to drive too far, because it would take too long. Has to be local. Preferably right in town.

TWilmingbury offers a number of fishing opportunities, but sadly most of them aren't accessible.

Tewksbury - Round Pond is hot right now for bass, but access is a pain. Technically, there is no public access to Round Pond, although the law requires it. McKenzie Drive and John E. Smith Drive (both off Chandler Street) end near the edge of the pond, and I understand some of the neighbors will let you put in a canoe if you're nice. No noise, no litter, no yelling or you'll blow it for everybody. Oh, and bring all the weedless lures you own.

Wilmington - Silver Lake is open to the public, but there is no paved boat ramp so stick with a canoe. Or rent a canoe from Wilmington Rec! Silver Lake is a "kettlehole" pond, with one deep hole (25+ feet) along the Route 38 edge, and very, very shallow along the shorelines. There are pike, and nice bass, in Silver Lake, but very little "structure" or shoreline weedbeds.

Tewksbury - Long Pond is open to the public, but again there is no boat ramp. The Whipple Road pond is so shallow and weed-choked that you wouldn't want to use a motor. Someday (sigh!) they've promised to dredge the pond and contruct a ramp, but don't hold your breath. There's a variety of gamefish in the pond, but try out the pickerel first. Slither a rubber frog through the thick weeds and just hang on. On the bright side, there's very little to mar the natural view around Long Pond. Plenty of wildlife.

Wilmington - The Ipswich River is a twisty, windy little brook, but it does have fish. A canoe will bring you to the best spots without getting your feet wet. A pretty float trip!

Tewksbury - Ames Pond is closed to the public, legally, but there are a few boats seen there from time to time. Maybe the security guard is "looking the other way" -- I'm not sure. MetLife owns the dam which forms Ames, which means MetLife owns every single drop of water, too. MetLife allow an ice fishing derby (one) there in the winter, but otherwise the weedy, shallow pond is closed. There are bass there, big ones, and if you stop by Barnacle Bill's tackle emporium in Littleton you'll see a previous state-record crappie on the wall which was taken from Ames Pond!

Wilmington - Foster's Pond -- see Ames Pond, above. Foster's is also created by a dam, meaning it too is private property. Most of the pond is in Andover, it seems everybody in Wilmington has fished there at least once. Forget the dam site, as that's definitely verboten. The bass fishing is fine, if you get a canoe in.

Tewksbury - Mud Pond - forget it.

Wilmington - Cranberry Bog - see Mud Pond.

Tewksbury - Concord River - it's stretching the point, but Tewksbury does meet the Concord River. Prior to giving up land for the creation of Lowell, Tewksbury stretched up to the site where the Concord River meets the Merrimack (which is now St. John's Hospital). Put in at the Route 225 bridge in Carlisle, and you'll have mile upon mile of good bass fishing and truly outrageous pike action!

Wilmington - Shea's "pond" is an old gravel pit behind Shea Concrete on Route 62. Locals know the way in, and they also know about the fish there, including good bass and perch fishing. Private property but nobody complains out loud.

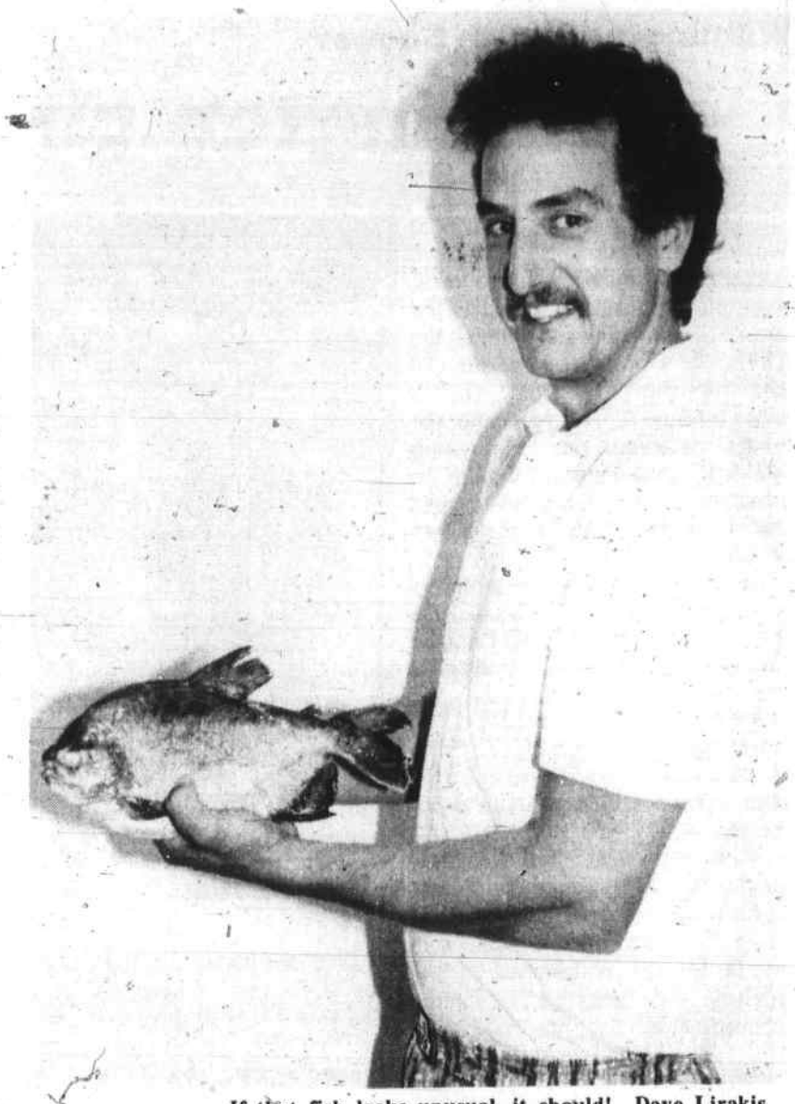

Tewksbury - Shawsheen River is a twisty waterway that flows from Bedford to the Merrimack, and if not for the dams in Andover there might be Atlantic salmon spawning in it. The river is annually stocked with trout, but the best pockets and pools are reached by canoe. There's supposed to be some good brookies in the Shawsheen, near I-93.

Wilmington - Lubber's Brook - a narrow trickle that crosses Route 62, but the state does stock trout in Lubber's. Why they stock a stream that moves so slowly is beyond me.

Tewksbury - Merrimack River - may as well end with the future site of terrific recreational adventures. The Merrimack is cleaner now than ever before in our lifetimes, with striped bass in the lower stretches (Newburyport) and a few walleye appearing here and there. The big river boasts both largemouth and smallmouth bass, pickerel, monster carp and who knows what else. If you haven't tried the Merrimack River yet, you owe yourself a trip. Ramps are found in Lowell and just above the Essex Dam in Lawrence.

--- Tackle Box ---

As for the picture nearby, Dave Lirakis from Shawsheen Street in Tewksbury caught this (no kidding) 24-ounce PIRANHA last Friday in a man-made impoundment in North Reading. Piranha, native to South American rivers, are widely known as meat-eaters, but they are not -- repeat NOT -- natives to this area. Our winter water temperatures are just too cold for them, so some nit-wit must have dumped the fish into the pond sometime this year. Dave said he caught the man-eater on a worm on his final cast of the day at D.L. Maher's man-made pond off Concord Street, North Reading, and he added that the fish put up a great fight. Dave said he saw the huge teeth on the fish and decided to cut the line rather than risk a nasty nip. And yes, he's thinking of having the piranha mounted.

Fish that bite back!

If that fish looks unusual, it should! Dave Lirakis of Shawsheen Street, Tewksbury, caught this piranha (yes, a piranha) in a man-made pond in N. Reading last week. He plans to have the carnivore mounted. Photo courtesy of the North Reading Transcript.

Shawsheen Tech students win gold medals in VICA

Eight students from Shawsheen Tech represented their school and the state of Massachusetts at the National Skill Olympics of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (Vica) this week.

Qualifying for nationals by winning gold medals in April at the state Vica competition were Christine Stevens, captain and Danielle Gormley, both of Wilmington, Diane Aldrich and Tricia Greenlaw of Billerica, Joleen Sylvain of Tewksbury and Stacey Laffin of Bedford, Health Knowledge Bowl Team; Doreen Tessier of Billerica, Nurse Assistant and Orderly; and Derek O'Sullivan of Wilmington, Bulletin Board.

"I am extremely proud of the achievements and accomplishments of the teachers and their students' performances at Vica in the past and am pleased our students again qualified for national competition," said Anthony R. Bazzinotti, director of vocational technical programs. Bazzinotti, technical illustration instructor, Ethel Leary and Health Technology instructor Kathy LoVetere are with the students in Louisville, Ky, site of the national competition, where top winners from up to 50 states pit their practical skills against one another for gold, silver and bronze medals. Students compete Wed. and Thurs., result were to be announced at the awards dinner Friday , June 26.

Repeat performance?

Shawsheen's Health Knowledge Bowl team has placed in national competition the past three years, winning the top honors and gold medals last summer. The 1992 team again vied for a national medal with Stevens and Gormley as returning team members and four new competitors. Health Technology instructor and team coach Barbara Ahern believes the new team could repeat their predecessor's performance at the National Skill Olympics. "I think we have an excellent chance," she said. "The kids worked very hard."

Leary returns to the nationals a second time with a state wide bulletin board winner, Derek O'Sullivan, and his artistic design with the theme, "Working with Today's Youth for a Better Tomorrow." Leary said she hopes desktop publishing, a state of the art part of the illustration field and an integral part of many commercial art curricula, will be added to the national contest soon. Her students have taken top honors in the state two years in a row.

A primer on sailing vessels

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Sailing ships are to be the attraction this weekend, for any family within a few hundred miles of Boston. Starting Friday, for several days, the Port of Boston will be thronged with sailing vessels, square rigged, and fore-and-aft rigged.

The local tv stations will be exhibiting them, some of them many times over. There will be programs in which individual speakers will explain what is to be seen.

The publisher of the Town Crier, who served in sail over 60 years ago, will attempt, on these pages to make a personal showing, of some aspects of the sailing of ships.

Capt. Neilson, incidentally, is not particularly attracted to the new descriptive phrase "Tall ships."

That is a phrase recently adapted by writers who were probably at a loss of words on how to collectively describe sailing vessels.

Granted that it does describe collectively many sailing vessels. It still does not include for instance small vessels, such as the schooners which frequented the shores of New England in days past.

"Square Rig" vessels will be, as may be expected the main attraction.Thirty or more such vessels will probably be seen.

The word "square" refers of course to the rig of the ship. Square Rigged vessels have horizontal yards, from which the sails are hung. The word "square," referring to the sails, is somewhat of a misnomer, for none of those sails are exactly "square."

A "Full rigged ship" has three or more masts, all with yards from which are hung the sails. There have been four masted full rig ships, there are today, and there have been at least two five masted square rigged vessels, one of whom was the Danmark, lost in the South Atlantic Ocean half a century ago.

Seamen frequently, in the days gone by, pronounced the word mast as "mist," and the word sail was shortened to "s'il."

The three masts of a full rigged ship were the Fore, Main and Mizzen. Above the masts were the "topmasts," and above those were the "topgallant." Above that, sometimes, was the "royal" and, rarely, above the royal was the sky mast.

Topgallant was pronounced "t'gallant" and above that mast, rarely, was the "royal mist." Sometimes above the royal was the skysail, the "skys'l m'st," which was suspended from the "skys'l yard" and "s'il."

On square rigged vessels every mast had a Top. That was not the highest part of the mast, but rather the first level to which a sailor climbed, some 40 feet above the deck. It was a platform area, above the main deck.

Above that, at the ultimate height to which a mast would reach, was the "truck." Sometimes there was a very small platform at the truck.

This writer, back over 50 years ago placed his hat on the Main Truck of the USS Constitution, while in the Boston Navy Yard.

A "square" sail is rarely square. It was made to fit the mast and yard. It is frequently "longer" than it is "up and down."

The top of the sail is the head, and on either side were the leeches. The bottom edge is the foot.

The corners of the sails were known as cringles, head cringles where the heads and leeches join, and the clews where the foot and leeches join.

A sail is bounded by roping, mostly but not always on the after (back) side of a square sail.

From the beginning of time, in square sails, they were hung from the yard arms. Seamen would have to climb onto the yards to pick up the sails and store them on the yards - frequently an unpleasant task.

The size of those sails may be judged from the topsail and topgallant sails of the USS Constitution - sails which are rarely seen today. It was a most unpleasant job to man-handle those sails up onto the yards.

It was not until 1853 that the American seamen were relieved of that unpleasant task.

Capt. Frederick Howes of Brewster, Mass. divided the topsails into two parts, and rigged an extra yard, at the half-way point. He did that on the ship Climax, of Boston.

The invention of Captain Howes was the greatest ever advance in the rigging of ships.

Readers are invited to inspect closely two Japanese Navy sailing ships which quite probably will be shown on the local tv screens, Friday and Saturday. Those Japanese vessels, only about two years old have double tops'ls and double t'gans'ls, for all masts.

All the sails appear to be (but are not) the same size.

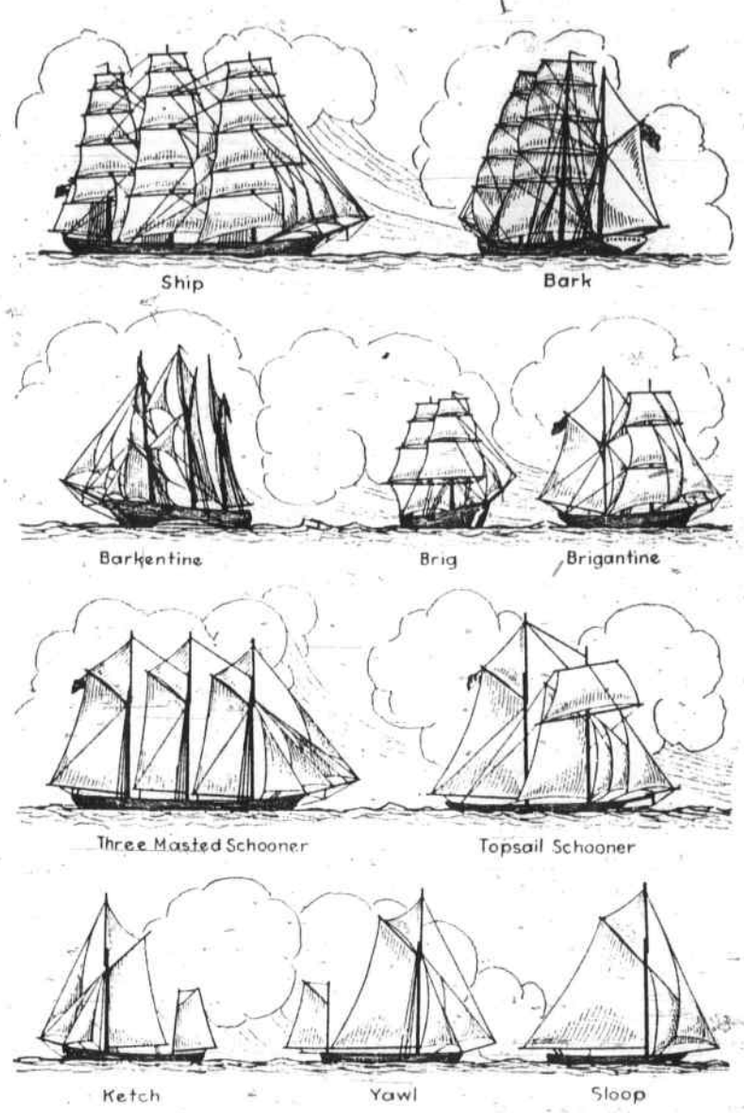

The ship which this writer will most probably examine will be the Amerigo Vespucci, a training ship for the Italian Navy.

Back in 1929 this writer was on a ship which was anchored about 150 feet from the Vespucci, in the harbor of Naples, Italy. It was something to see.

That was, of course, in the days when Italy was ruled by Mussolini.

There were probably 150 to 200 youths on the Vespucci. There was always more or less active combat, among those young people - chasing each other up and down the rigging, and actively pummeling any youth who happened to be "caught."

It did not seem to be exactly friendly.

JOHN DEERE LAWN CARE
Tricycler mowers lead to a healthier lawn and environment
Each year Americans generate 50 million tons of yard waste, accounting for 20% of all trash in our landfills. What can a homeowner do to have a lush green lawn – without contributing to the landfill crisis?
Use a Tricycler mower from John Deere.
The Tricycler mower allows you to mulch your lawn... plus do a lot more. The Tricycler mower is a state-of-the-art system that will let you mulch, bag or cut and blow your grass clippings.
THE ONE-THIRD RULE
Only cut off one third of the grass blade during any single mowing. The clippings will be short enough to decompose rapidly. Or, use one of the Tricycler's other mowing options side-discharge or bagger.
WHAT ABOUT THATCH?
Many people think not bagging contributes to thatch buildup. Experts say no. Freshly cut grass is 85 percent water and decomposes rapidly.
Shallow watering and over fertilizing contribute to thatch much more than clippings do.
RECYCLING
Today's yard waste can be tomorrow's fertilizer. The Tricycler mower can also easily mulch light layers of dry leaves. Make sure the leaves cover no more than half the grass blade. If you can't see the grass underneath, mow a second time with the bag on.
The right equipment is important. Don't get stuck with a mower only capable of mulching. A John Deere Tricycler is your best choice. Come to Sanda Equipment Sales for your next mower. We're located at 222 Andover Street, just off Rte 125 in Wilmington
Call us at (508) 694-9920.

Dancing with Disney

By DOUGLAS WOOD-BOYLE

The Magic Kingdom Walt Disney is a land of dreams and fantasy for many people who have grown up with the likes of cartoon characters such as Mickey Mouse and his bumbling canine friend, Goofy.

For many the dream of visiting one of the many Disney theme parks such as Disneyworld in Florida has a possibility for coming true. However, when it does come through the rest of the fantasy kicks in as many people start their minds to imagining what it would be like to be a performer in the Magic Kingdom.

A group of dance students from Woburn's Dance Production studio had their chance, this week, to realize a part of that fantasy as appeared at Lake Buena Vista in Disneyworld. The students entertained audiences of tourists with a 30-minute show as part of the Walt Disney Magic Music Days.

Dance Production co-owner Sandi Duncan recalled that when the word came just after Christmas that the group had been selected, one of the students was on hand at the studio and "she was so excited that she almost hit her head."

The half hour show was choreographed on a patriotic American theme in style with the certain look that Disney people are seeking from their amateur participants.

"There are a lot of strict rules we have to adhere to," Duncan said. "They (the Disney people) want the dancers to be professional for a day."

She added that this fits in quite nicely with the plans of some of her young charges, ranging in age from 11 to 18, who are hoping fervently to be discovered while doing their routines on the Disney stage.

Since its establishment in 1988, only five American scientists have received the Linnean award, the highest award available to botanists and zoologists.

Dancing for Disney

From S-1

Duncan, on the Board of Directors for the Dance Masters of America, was attending a convention last year when she first saw another group perform as part of the Music Days. She later met the choreographer for the Disney studios and was told how to submit an application to appear.

She and husband, Bob, took an audition tape down last November and were asked a lot of questions about how the dance school is operated.

Bob explained that after the troupe was accepted some of the real work started. This not only included working on the routines but also raising the $5,000 to $6,000 that was needed to finance the trip.

The students and their parents held raffles, car washes, sales of Teddy Bears and even dances to raise the money. The couple also thanked the 25 local businesses that contributed prizes for the raffles.

Referring to the economy, Bob said, "It worked out good that we got accepted, but for the parents it may not have been the best of times."

However, the fundraising was successful and about 50 people including the 26 dancers and their chaperones have made the trip.

The dancers are in three groups:

-Dance Company, made up of assistant teachers and student demonstrators ranging in age from 14 to 18;

-Apprentice Dance Company made up of students that are working toward becoming teachers and in the 14 to 17-year-old age bracket; and

-The Junior Dance Company made up of students starting at age 10.

Sandi said that the show consists of routines based on a mix of contemporary, jazz and show music.

The opening number is a choreography of Barry Manilow's "Bandstand Boogie," a 1950's style swing number with all American lyrics.

The Broadway numbers will include versions of "Steam Heat" a novelty number from Pajama Game, and "A Brand New Day" from The Wiz.

The Junior Group performs a jazz version of Barbara Streisand's "Yankee Doodle" from the America album.

Country music included in the routine, was "A Hoedown" a rodeo ballet and the show finished with a kick line choreographed to "Sing For You America."

According to Sandi, the show does not feature any one student. "We want them to work as a team."

Bob explained, "Even the Disney employees work as a team or in a group."

Sandi noted that the excitement level was high in the months preceding the trip.

"They have been rehearsing four to five hours per-week for the last month," Sandi said.

This is not the first tour performance for The Dance Production students. Sandi explained "I feel it is important they don't just get training from me."

As a result, some of the students have been to Florida on a previous trip and some students have accompanied Sandi to Chicago about five years ago when the school first started. After the Disney performance, the students will remain in Florida for a convention of dance schools being held there.

One student who has been on all three trips is Stacy LaCorcia, a recent Wilmington High School graduate.

Sandi noted that the Disney performance will be LaCorcia's last performance with the group.

Next year she will be attending the University of New Hampshire, majoring in education with a minor in dance.

Although not one of the younger students, Woburn's Valerie Tighe is one of the newer students on the trip, having only studied for the past two years, with Sandi.

Sandi described her as "the kind of a kid that is a natural. Although she is not as advanced as some of the others."

Sandi has had some of her students audition for the Disney company in the past and said that the experience has been good. "They audition about 10,000 people and then pick about four or five."

According to Sandi and Bob, the students are pretty much split as to why they take the lessons. Some are looking for a career and others do it just to have a good time.

Sandi noted that no matter what the reason,"It is a commitment. A lot of these kids go to school together."

Bob added that the students form friends that extend outside of the studio and rehearsal time.

However, the commitment is watched over by Bob and Sandi to make sure that the student's academic work is not being harmed.

Bob, a computer consultant, is on-hand to give math advice to the students if they need it.

Sandi noted that many of her students maintain A and B grade averages in their school work.

Although this trip includes an all female cast, Sandi noted that some younger students are boys.

Bob said, "There is a lot more opportunity for boys in the business than for girls."

This opportunity is attributed to the number of boys that take dance lessons long enough to become proficient in the art.

"There is a lot of peer pressure on boys who dance," Sandi said.

She notes that even the younger students who were not able to go on this trip will receive the advantage of it. "The can look at the kids who are going and know that there is something to look forward to."

And for those that made the trip, one more step has been taken toward the dream.

Quannapowitt Beach Open

From S-1

July 24. The second session is from July 27 to August 21.

Both sessions will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 10 to 10:30 a.m. and 11 to 11:30 a.m.

The fee for one four week session worth of swimming lessons is $10, and lessons will be available to everyone from "water babies" to advanced beginners.

Manning the Col. Connelly Beach as lifeguards will be returning guards Karen Nicolson, Meg Lucey and Melanie Parrz.

The beaches themselves are awaiting Lake Quannapowitt enthusiasts. They are in excellent shape, with new sand having been put down recently.

The water quality is excellent. It is being tested every week by Health Agent James Nugent. The bathrooms are clean and the playground equipment will certainly keep young people entertained between swims.

Recreation Director Roger Maloney said, "As director, I would like to thank Department of Public Works supervisors Robert Belanger, Lou Perillo, Chet Confalone and Richard Testa for their assistance, as well as their men in the trenches for putting this facility in excellent shape."

One of the highlights of the beach season will be the annual long distance lake swim for Wakefield residents. It will be held on Tuesday, Aug. 18, at 1:30 p.m., starting at the Col. Connelly Beach.

Come and meet new friends, especially for your youngsters. Mothers enjoy the equipment, the sun and have a relaxing day at the beach with the promise of great weather all season.

John MacDonnell re-elected as President VNA Board of Directors

JOHN MACDONNELL OF READING, newly re-elected President of the Board of Directors, Visiting Nurse Association of Middlesex-East, is congratulated by Jacquelyn Galluzzi, Chief Executive Officer.

"Growth is the keyword of the year at the Visiting Nurses of Middlesex-East," John MacDonnell, Board President and Jacquelyn Galluzzi, MSN, Chief Executive Officer said at the Annual Business Meeting of the members of the Board of Directors held June 23.

Galluzzi reported that patients have doubled from two years ago,..that lab services have doubled. She pointed out to the membership that new services such as the psychiatric nursing program and enterostomal therapy with a specialist in treatment of wounds and skin have been added this year.

MacDonnell noted that Middlesex-East has remained the largest provider of home health care for the past five years in an area which is highly competitive. The year 1991, MacDonnell stated, has continued five years of unprecedented growth.

Galluzzi reported that the agency implemented advanced directives to have people name a person to act on their behalf when they are no longer able to do so because of illness.

"It's no wonder that we were certified without deficiency," MacDonnell said, "we received a super 'A' plus! Growth and development were our sharp focuses in 1991," MacDonnell told his directors.

Galluzzi said that due to the increased number of patients, her staff has now expanded to 100. The rehab staff has recently increased to 20, she reports. The clinical staff serves six communities out of the Stoneham headquarters.

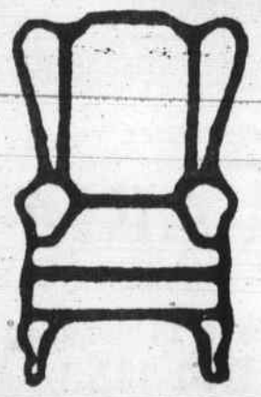

MacDonnell explained to the directors that while 90% of men, women and children are able to pay for their home health care, there is 10% of people who are needy sick and in a financial crisis. This group is taken care of by fund raising, he explained.

"Without fund raising, we would not be able to do it," he said. He added that it takes well over $100,000 in Free Care these days to provide for community people served by the agency who are in financial need.

"A great by-product of fund raising these past four years," the chief executive officer said, "is that our supporters in the community have increased."

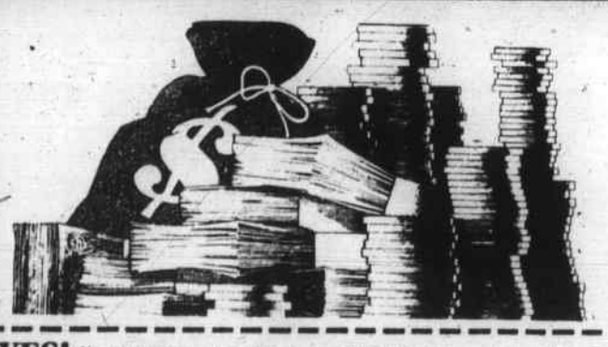

Galluzzi noted, too, that "we are moving ahead and adding staff to meet the needs of our communities. And, 1992 is our 90th year. We have power and clout to grow. Our name is synonymous with quality home care. We are not exactly the new kids on the block."

Members of the Board of Directors heard all about it at the Annual Meeting -- "1991 was a very good year."

MADCAP MUSICAL, "MORRISSEY HALL"

Woburn resident Beth Harrington is part of the cast in the Winnmere Family Theater production of "The Utter Glory of Morrissey Hall," a madcap musical comedy, running July 10-11, 16-18, 8 p.m.; July 12, 7 p.m. at the Burlington Player's Park Playhouse, 1 Edgemere Avenue, Burlington.

"Morrissey Hall" is a whimsical musical comedy about the nutty goings-on in an English girls' school. The show is filled with light-hearted charm, hilarious action and marvelous music that spoofs every style of the musical theater. Celeste Holm starred in the Broadway production of "Morrissey Hall," which the New York Times called, "...delightfully absurd...There is a playfulness to it that is most appealing."

The show is being guided by director Jennifer Lavin Howard, music director Joy Dibble Nagy and choreographer Donald Suthard, the same team that created Winnmere's wildly successful production of "Grease" last June. They've assembled a multi-talented cast of adult and teenage actors.

School notes

by phyllis nissen

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

--Stoneham Middle School science teacher Liz Sorrell is not only responsible for introducing her students, school and state to the official middle school national science olympiad - she has obtained for the school $5,000 worth of grant money from Exxon as part of a national chemistry award in the category of implementation.

--Members of the Woburn Teachers Association have voted 184-108 to put off raises until March 1993 rather than take them this September as previously agreed upon.

According to WTA officials, the move should save all the tenured teacher jobs, and officials are hopeful that the 24 non-tenured jobs can be saved by other means.

"What they did showed an awful lot of class, and a lot of concern for quality education in Woburn," says Superintendent of Schools Paul J. Andrews, in the Woburn edition of the Daily Times Chronicle. "I applaud their vote and their efforts."

--Reading's Joshua Eaton School - Principal Don Farnham at the helm - has been designated one of 11 pilot schools nationwide for the development of a global education curriculum framework. The Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development received more than 100 applications for the program.

--Because of budget cuts which have reduced both academic courses and staff, Wilmington High students will have a seven - rather than eight - period day next year.

According to Wilmington High Principal Paul Fleming, the high school, short six faculty members, will offer 25 fewer academic sessions and five fewer reading courses.

A "flex" eighth period will be available from 1:45 p.m. to 2:35 p.m. Teachers involved in that period will begin their day during the second period in order not to violate their contract.

—Wakefield reading specialists, tutors and moderate special needs teachers recently attended a second workshop on the Orton-Gillingham Reading Method.

Presented by Angela Wilkins of Lincoln's Carroll School, the workshop focused on a systematic, structured, multi-sensory approach to language arts rather than the whole language approach to which some students do not respond.

The Orton-Gillingham method moves from the concrete to the abstract and assumes that the student only knows what has been specifically taught to him or her.

—A record-breaking 65.7 percent of the members of the Melrose High Class of '92 is planning to attend four-year colleges or universities; 61 percent of the Melrose High Class of 1991 attended four-year schools.

In 1958, 30 percent of the graduating class continued on to four-year schools.

Melrose High head guidance counselor Patricia Kodzis points out that although many students were accepted at prestigious universities, they opted to attend state colleges because more scholarship money was available.

—In conjunction with a town-wide authorfest, children's author Stephen Krensky spoke to North Reading's Hood School students on the "Lionel" series, his books for beginning readers about the daily lives of a young boy and his family. Krensky also appeared at a reception at the public library. He began publishing his books in the late '70s.

CHILDREN'S HAPPINESS FOUNDATION FUND RAISER

Tom Simms, Executive Director of New England's Children's Happiness Foundation (CHF) has begun his bicycle ride from Orlando, Florida to Boston, to raise money for the Children's Happiness Foundation, a not-for-profit organization which fulfills the wishes of New England children suffering from serious chronic or life-threatening illnesses.

Simms hopes to raise $250,000 from the bike tour, through individual and corporate pledges and donations -- enough to grant wishes to 100 sick children in the New England area. "These kids have so much love and spirit in them, it's nice to be able to give them something they'll remember," said Simms. "I'm just thankful to have the support of the sponsors and the physical ability to make this bike ride a reality."

In addition, Simms sees the bike tour as a strong opportunity to gain public exposure for CHF. "A supplementary goal of the bike ride is to generate increased awareness of the Foundation, through both the media and word of mouth. In tough economic times, it's crucial that we keep CHF top-of-mind with people all across New England, to keep the donations coming in."

To request a CHF Bike Tour pledge sheet, or to make a direct donation, please call (617) 837-9609, or write to: Children's Happiness Foundation, P.O. Box 266, Marshfield, MA 02050.

A League of Their Own and Short Takes

by Rochelle Flynn

"A League of Their Own" Starring Geena Davis, Tom Hanks, Lori Petty, Rosie O'Donnell, Madonna. Directed by Penny Marshall. Screenplay by Lowell Ganz, Babaloo Mandel. Produced by Robert Greenhut, Elliot Abbott. Rated PG.

In 1942, it appeared as if professional baseball might just have to go the way of gasoline and stockings for the duration of the war. There just weren't enough men around to keep the bases loaded. By 1943 the game was flourishing, only it was women hitting the home runs.

"A League of Their Own," details that first year the Rockford Peaches played in the All American Girls Professional Baseball Team. The story, told via flashback from the induction of the league into the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1988, centers on dairy farmer Geena Davis and her sister, Lori Petty.

Jon Lovitz is the big mouth recruiter with a cynical stream of consciousness who travels the Midwest looking for possible players. Davis, an immensely talented catcher, is not all that hot to trot off the farm, but sister Petty, a pitcher, hopes to make the cows an unpleasant memory. Though the film is very much about the game, and remains an ensemble piece, the sub-plot of these two sisters is at the heart of the story.

Other players include a former dance hall hostess (Madonna) and said dance hall's bouncer (Rosie O'Donnell); a dowdy power pitcher (Megan Cavanagh); a mom whose son hits the road with her (Bitty Schram); and an illiterate outfield (Ann Cusack). These actresses convincingly portray women who were misfits because of their ability to play, no semi-talented athletes who had to be whipped into shape. They loved the game enough to endure skirted uniforms, deportment classes, chaperones and male condescension.

Appearing in one of his most intriguing roles in years is Tom Hanks as the Rockford's manager. His Jimmy Dugan is a crass alcoholic with a noteworthy baseball past. Now he'd rather stay drunk than admit he ended up coaching a girls' team. But the women's natural ability and determination eventually force him to open a boozy eye and stumble out of the dugout. Hank's growly performance masks the obvious decency under his grubby exterior. This is his most finely tuned and honest performance since 1988's "Big."

Not that Hank's didn't have some stiff competition on the playing field. The cast is truly stellar, which offsets a somewhat sugar-coated script that could have used a little more grit. Davis lends emotional warmth to her performance as the team's star player while Lori Singer adds zip as a firebrand trying to fight her way out of her talented sister's shadow. Madonna is surprisingly not Madonna as the brassy center fielder and O'Donnell is earthy and funny as the team's mouthpiece. Even the supporting cast is awash with such gems as Garry Marshall, David Strathairn and Bill Pullman.

Director Penny Marshall has turned out one of the best baseball movies of all times. We can overlook its occasional sappiness because Marshall made it very clear that these ladies played with heart, and panache. If nothing else, it most certainly makes you wonder why the league was disbanded in 1954.

JIMMY DUGAN (TOM HANKS), manager of the Rockford Peaches, and Dottie Hinson (Geena Davis), his catcher and top player, root for their team in "A League of Their Own," a Columbia Pictures Release.

Short Takes

Boomerang stars Eddie Murphy as a womanizing ad exec who learns about sincerity from Halle Berry after he meets his libidinous match in Robin Givens. Murphy has toned down a lot and there is actually some warmth in his performance, especially in the smaller scenes. But this battle of the sexes is more than a little crass and not particularly funny. Rated R. **

Unlawful Entry stars Kurt Russell as a night club owner whose sexy school teacher wife, Madeleine Stowe, has become the fatal obsession of a demented cop, Ray Liotta. It's an interesting set-up and the cast is top notch, but this becomes just a classy horror flick with pretensions of grandeur. Although there are some palpable thrills in this picture, thanks to director Jonathan Kaplan, the plot was bused in from a made-for-TV movie. Rated R. ***

Monster in a Box is Spalding Gray's hilarious, and personal, tale of avoidance as he procrastinated the completion of his novel "Impossible Vacation" for six years. His accounts of a Russian Film Festival, a fact finding mission to Nicaragua and interviews with UFO abductees are both funny and poignant. Gray lets us into his psyche and tells us what he knows of human nature. Rated PG-13. ****

Batman Returns is a huge improvement over director Tim Burton's last comic book caper. Gotham City is done up in Fascist architecture, Michael Keaton's Batman and Michelle Pfeiffer's Catwoman suffer from split personalities and The Penguin (Danny DeVito) just needs a hug. The plot is meandering and Christopher Walken's energy vampire just sort of drops out of sight, but not before we've had a real Bat treat. Rated PG-13.  1/2

Alien 3 is supposed to be a scary movie, but someone forgot to tell director David Ancher, who thought he was making an art movie. Atmospheric smoke and dark, dreary settings just are not frightening. Ditto for the alien, who looks like a guy in a rubber suit. There is a fair amount of gore, but long stretches of this flick are simply boring. Even Sigourney Weaver seems tired of the whole thing. Rated R. * 1/2

Housesitter is an update of the kind of screwball comedy where nothing much has to make sense, as long as it's funny. Goldie Hawn plays a consummate liar who pushes her way into Steve Martin's lonely life. Hawn just moves into Martin's empty house, the one he built for Dana Delany before she dumped him. Hawn then tells everyone, including Martin's folks, that they are married. You can connect the dots from there. This is fun, frothy, and lighter than air. Rated PG.  1/2

Patriot Games is the lackluster sequel to "Hunt for Red October," with Harrison Ford playing the role originated by Alec Baldwin. Harrison, now retired, steps into his old job at the CIA when his family is targeted by a rogue IRA terrorist. An outrageously implausible plot and two-dimensional characters make for a thriller that is more tepid than taut. This summer "Blockbuster" is more likely to produce a yawn than keep you on the edge of your seat. Rated R. **

Sister Act stars Whoopi Goldberg as a second-rate lounge singer forced to hide out in a convent after witnessing her gangster boyfriend plug a flunky. Maggie Smith is the indomitable Mother Superior with a calming effect Goldberg, who in turns drags t convent into the 20th centur Upbeat and oodles of fun, th movie is worth seeing just for t gospel versions of Motown hit Rated PG. 1/2

Encino Man is a silly, pande ing film about two Californ teens who find a caveman in, rather under, their backyard. Th plot is predictable and sorely lacl ing in humor, but Pauly Shore, MTV fame, does a great turn as spacey, pacifist teen. Rated PG **

Far and Away tells the tale two Irish immigrants and the adventures in America, right up the Oklahoma land race in 189 Director Ron Howard tried make an epic out of a skimp story, resulting in a lot of e candy but very little meat. To Cruise and Nicole Kidman are li able and the visuals are stunnin but the overlong plot is less th captivating. Rated PG-13.  1/2

The Playboys features Rob Wright as a single mother in backwater Irish town in the 195(who sees travelling actor Alde Quinn as a way out of her repre sive community. Albert Finney the local cop who can barely co trol his rage or his desire f Wright. The film masterfully ca tures the oppression doled out t the Church and the cunnin hypocracy used by people to su vive. The plot has a few loos ends, but otherwise it entertair on several levels. Rated PG-1  1/2

Lethal Weapon 3 is a violer and unconvincing action pi reuniting Mel Gibson and Dann Glover as two mismatched L police detectives. Their banter forced and the plot, involving a ex-cop gone bad, is stale. Th only refreshing bit in this film i an off-beat love scene involvin Gibson and a fellow detectiv (Rene Russo). Except for th opening explosion, this film is dud. Rated R. * 1/2

Howard's End weaves the emo tional story of two Edwardia families, one unbending and prop er, the other free spirited an open. The two families are joine through marriage, resulting i some surprising changes for al parties. The film belongs t Emma Thompson as a strong intelligent woman who brings th families together and then keep them going. Rated PG. ****

The Player is director Rober Altman's ultimate skewering o Hollywood. Tim Robbins is paranoid studio exec who man ages to get away with murder a he tries to hold onto his job Wicked and dark and very funny this flick both pays tribute and lambastes Hollywood and our pre occupation with actors-as-gods. More than 60 stars show up t make fun of their biz and provide glitter for this amazing, entertaining film. Rated R. ****
